

INTRODUCTION

These tables show for each local government electoral area in New Zealand the following details -

- * population
- * the number of members elected from each area
- * the population to member ratios for each area
- * where applicable, the difference, for each area, from the average population to member ratio for the overall district, community, local board area or region (in both numerical and % terms)

The populations used are the estimated resident population as at 30 June 2016, provided by Statistics New Zealand.

The local government boundaries used are those that existed as at 1 January 2017.

The % difference is the calculation applied when determining to whether an area complies with the +/-10% rule in section 19V(2) of the Local Electoral Act. Where this difference falls outside the +/-10% range it is shown in bold.

Statistics New Zealand has provided the following notes:

- (a) The estimated resident population of an area in New Zealand at 30 June 2016 is an estimate of all people who usually live in that area at that date. It includes all residents present in New Zealand and counted by the 2013 census; residents who are temporarily elsewhere in New Zealand and counted by the 2013 census; adjustment for residents missed or counted more than once by the 2013 census (net census undercount); and births, deaths and net migration between census night and the date of the estimates. Visitors from elsewhere in New Zealand and overseas are excluded.
- (b) Where a region is divided into General and Māori constituencies populations are calculated as follows. For each area, the Māori electoral population at 30 June 2016 is derived by applying a ratio to the estimated resident population of Māori descent at 30 June 2016; this ratio is attained by dividing the number of people of Māori descent who were on the Māori electoral roll by the number of people of Māori descent who were on either the general or Māori electoral roll. The general electoral population is calculated as the difference between the estimated resident population and the Māori electoral population.
- (c) The following rounding rules have been applied:
Figures less than 10,000 have been rounded to the nearest 10. Figures in the range 10,000–19,999 have been rounded to the nearest 50. Otherwise figures have been rounded to the nearest 100.
- (d) Due to independent calculation of populations at specific geographic levels, figures for the electoral areas in a district or region may not sum to the separate estimates for the district or region as a whole.
